

Determinismo e libertà. Alcune riflessioni etico-filosofiche sul tema

MAURIZIO BALISTRERI

Abstract: Genetic testing can be a tool of discrimination and be used to penalize those people who have particular genetic characteristics, but they can also encourage and promote the autonomy and wellbeing. Scientific development is not incompatible with the respect for fundamental rights. We should still have the ability to deal with the new possibilities of science and technology with a critical eye and learn to distinguish what can cause harm and suffering from what may instead contribute to our happiness.
