

Il diritto di avere diritti in Europa

STEFANO RODOTÀ

The Right to have Rights in Europe

Abstract: Despite the Charter of Fundamental Rights of 2000, the European Union is itself responsible for the lack of implementation of the rights proclaimed therein. In the light of the Charter and of the principles of dignity, liberty, equality and solidarity, the Author believes that policies designed by taking into account only the economic dimension of issues must be rejected.

Keywords: Rights, Charter of Fundamental Rights, European Union.