

Filosofia, storia della filosofia, verità

La filosofia non è un sapere storico

MARCO SANTAMBROGIO

Philosophy Is not Knowledge of History

Abstract: What Karl Popper termed historicism has been the mainstream in Italian philosophy in the last half a century. Historicism looks askance at the very notion of truth. Massimo Ferrari's rejoinder to my remarks concerning his recent book shows that history, not truth, is still what matters most to many philosophers in this country.

Keywords: History, Truth, Ad hominem fallacy.
