Scattered Remarks in the Margins of the Book “Grammatica del costituzionalismo”

Abstract: The contribution makes considerations on certain parts of the book of interest to the constitutionalist. In particular, it reflects on the concept of constitutions and their characteristics. It shows how the different contexts in which constitutions are made determine differences in the way constitutions are made. Considerations are also made on the principle of equality and constitutional justice.

Keywords: Constitution, Equality, Constitutional justice, Fundamental rights, Form of government.
