Ethics, Objectivity, and Environment

Abstract: This article discusses the hybrid metaethical perspective proposed by the author, who proposes to put together subjective and objective aspects, in order to justify environmental ethics and to separate it from traditional ethics. To this end, special emphasis is placed on the problems of natural ends and human free will, and on the ambiguity of the notion of intrinsic value.

Keywords: Metaethics, Environmental ethics, Subjectivism, Evolution, Intrinsic value.
