When Species Accompany. The Other Manifesto by Donna J. Haraway

Abstract: A new Italian translation of Donna J. Haraway's Manifesto of the Companion Species has been released after twenty years. Living with her dog led the American biologist and philosopher to think a political and ecological model of life based on the idea of companion species. The companion species are species that have transformed themselves genetically through processes of biological co-evolution, history and everyday life experiences.

Keywords: Species, Companion species, Feminist theory, Postcolonialism.
