

Nien-hê Hsieh

Associate Professor in the Legal Studies and Business Ethics Department, Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania

Nien-hê Hsieh is an Associate Professor in the Legal Studies and Business Ethics Department at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania with a secondary appointment in the Department of Philosophy. For 2011-2012, he was the MBA Class of 1953 Visiting Associate Professor of Business Administration at Harvard Business School.

Professor Hsieh's current work focuses on developing a framework to provide guidance for business leaders managing in contexts where institutional arrangements are weak, incomplete, or contested. The project follows his research on evaluating institutional arrangements that structure economic production, decision-making in the face of incommensurable values, the moral dimensions of work, and the role of multinational enterprises in assisting persons whose basic needs are not met. His work has been published in Business Ethics Quarterly, Economics and Philosophy, The Journal of Political Philosophy, Philosophy and Public Affairs, Social Theory and Practice, Utilitas, and various other journals.

Professor Hsieh teaches courses on ethics, corporate responsibility, and social impact in the undergraduate, MBA, doctoral, and executive programs. He has served as Co-Director of the Wharton Ethics Program, and he has been involved in expanding curricular and co-curricular offerings, having developed the Undergraduate Secondary Concentration in Social Impact and Responsibility and serving as its faculty coordinator.

Professor Hsieh holds a B.A. in Economics from Swarthmore College, an M.Phil. in Politics from Oxford University, and a Ph.D. in Economics from Harvard University. Before joining the faculty at Wharton in 2001, he was a Postdoctoral Fellow at Harvard Business School, and he has held visiting fellowships at Harvard University, Oxford University, and the Research School for Social Sciences at the Australian National University.

Professor Hsieh holds a B.A. in Economics from Swarthmore College, an M.Phil. in Politics from Oxford University, and a Ph.D. in Economics from Harvard University. Before joining the faculty at Wharton in 2001, he was a Postdoctoral Fellow at Harvard Business School, and he has held visiting fellowships at Harvard University, Oxford University, and the Research School for Social Sciences at the Australian National University.