

Simone de Colle

Lecturer in Business Ethics, DCU Institute of Ethics, Dublin, Ireland

Simone de Colle has over fifteen years of experience in teaching business ethics and corporate social responsibility (CSR) in Europe and the US. His research interests focus on Stakeholder Theory, CSR standards and organizational ethical failures. He holds a PhD in Management and Business Ethics from the University of Virginia, Darden Business School (advisor: Ed Freeman). In Italy, he was the co-founder of the Q-RES Project (www.qres.it), a multi-stakeholder initiative that produced the Q-RES Guidelines for Management, an open-source standard to integrate ethics and social responsibility into corporate strategy. After joining Dublin City University in 2011 Simone is teaching Business Ethics modules in the MBA and MA programs and advises Irish corporations on ethics programs and sustainability reporting practices.

Relevant publications:

- Freeman, Wicks, Harrison, Parmar and de Colle. Stakeholder Theory: The State of the Art (2010, Cambridge University Press)
- “Why Wine Is Not Glue? The Unresolved Problem of Negative Screening in Socially Responsible Investing”, S. de Colle & J. York, Journal of Business Ethics, Vol. 85, No. 1: 83-95, March 2009.
- CSR and Management Systems, chapter in J. Alluche (ed.) Corporate Social Responsibility. Concepts, Accountability and Reporting, Palgrave MacMillan, 2006.
- The Q-RES Project: The Quality of Social and Ethical Responsibility of Corporations, by S. de Colle, L. Sacconi & E. Baldin, in J. Wieland (ed.), Standards and Audits for Ethics Management Systems: The European Perspective, Springer Verlag, Berlin, 2003: 60-115.