

Elena Pariotti

Professor of Human Rights, Padua University

Elena Pariotti is full professor of Legal Philosophy at the University of Padova (Italy), Faculty of Political Sciences, Department of Comparative Law.

She takes part in the academic board of the post-graduate programme on “Human rights: Evolution, Guarantees, Limits”) co-managed with Palermo University. She is member of the Scientific Committee of the “Center for environmental law decisions and corporate ethical certification” (<http://www.ciga.unipd.it>) and co-operates with the activities of the Center.

Her main research topics have been dealing with legal interpretation, multiculturalism, human rights and theory of international law, theory of regulation.

Among her most recent publications:

Pariotti E., 2011, Non-State Actors, International Law, and Human Rights, in Silverburg Sanford R. (ed.), International Law. Contemporary Issues and Future Developments, Westview Press, Boulder (CO).

Pariotti E., 2011, Transnational Corporations and Human Rights, in Cushman T. (ed.), Handbook of Human Rights (Routledge International Handbooks), Routledge, New York (forthcoming)

Pariotti E., 2010, Law, Uncertainty and Emerging Technologies. Towards a Constructive Implementation of the Precautionary Principle in the Case of Nanotechnologies, in “Persona y Derecho”, 62, pp. 15-27

Pariotti E., 2009, International Soft Law, Human Rights and Non-state Actors: Towards the Accountability of Transnational Corporations?, in “Human Rights Review”, 139-255

Pariotti E., 2009, Regulating Nanotechnologies: Towards the Interplay of Hard and Soft Law, in “Notizie di Politeia”, 25, pp. 29-40

Pariotti E., 2009, “Soft law” e ordine giuridico ultra-statuale tra “rule of law” e democrazia, in “Ragion pratica”, 32, pp. 87-105

Pariotti E., 2008, I diritti umani tra giustizia e ordinamenti giuridici, UTET, Torino.